Redwood City Revolvings

John Moline of Lodi has maved here and will make this city his permanant residence. Mr. Moline will engage in the contracting business.

Mr. and Mrs. Meisner have come here from the east to reside and have taken a house on Phelps street. They have a daughter attending the State normal school at San Jose and a son teaching in the southern part of the State.

Miss Hattie Nobs and her sister, Miss Sophie Nobs, will depart next week for Orange, Orange county, the former to resume her duties in the high school there and the latter to begin her duties as teacher in the fourth grade of the grammar school.

J. M. White of San Francisco is erecting a 110-foot smokestack at the Frank tannery. It will take two months to complete the work, and when finished it will have cost $3000. It is to be built of brick and will be one of the most substantial in the state.

Joe Balbi, a vegetable gardener at the Folger place at Woodside, was arrested Thursday on a charge of insanity. He slashed his throat with a sharp knife and made an effort to commit suicide. He was taken before the insanity commission and committed to Agnews.

Mrs. Gertrude Morgan, the popular chief deputy in the Assessor's office, has gone to Portland for her vacation.

Mrs. M. E. Hanson, Miss Bee Fox, Miss Cora Lovie and Miss Laura Hanson left Saturday for Lake Tahoe where they will remain at the Tavern over the holidays.

Arthur J. Lanfear and Miss Alice Kreiss of this city were united in marriage in the Catholic church last Tuesday. The pretty bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Kreiss residing on Phelps street. Mr. Lanfear is a plumber by trade and is employed by Wm. Jamieson.

Judge and Mrs. Springer have arrived here from the Philipine Islands. Mr. Springer was appointed a judge by the government several years ago and after a successful career on the bench resigned a short time ago and came to San Francisco to practice law. He intends to make his home in this city and is at present residing in one of the Benson cottages.

Dudley Pitcher has entered Stanford, having registered on Monday in the electricial engineering department. Mr. Pitcher is a graduate of the local high school and will work his way through the university. He is employed as station agent for the Peninsular Railway at Los Altos and has so arranged his work so that he will be able to attend the university. It is just such young men as Mr. Pitcher, with determination and courage, who make their mark in the world. Those born with the silver spoon in their mouths rarely become great men.

A deed was filed in the Recorder's office Friday whereby Francis J. Carolan and wife convey to W. G. Irwin, the Honolulu capitalist and planter, the Carolan home at Burlingame consisting of 21 acres and improvements. The purchaser is the father in-law of Templeton Crocker and is a multimillionaire. The sum of $300,000 was paid for the property.

Suicide of Alfred Leidecker

About six o'clock Sunday Alfred Leidecker purchased an ounce of chloroform from the Peninsula drug store in Daly City, saying he wanted to kill a dog. He then went to Knowles saloon, where in the presence of a dozen people he drank the chloroform and at once sank to the floor unconcious.

An antidote was administered and Dr. G. L. Marion was called, who soon had the man reviving with the assistance of those present who aided in the artificial respiration necessary, caused by repeated sinking spells. Finally he was thought to be in good condition so an ambulance was called and conveyed the patient to a city hospital. But he died an hour after arriving at the hospital.

On February 10, 1912, the eldest child, a 7-year-old boy, was shot by Clarence H. Prentiss, aged 17, in a shack where Prentis lived at 610 Green aveuue. The wound was thought to be fatal and the boy was taken to the hospital, but after several weeks he recovered.

X-Ray Skirts Barred

Manager J. F. Adams of the San Mateo district of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, has issued an official edict to the "hello" girls of his office against the wearing of X-ray and exaggerated slit skirts. The ban was levied because one of the former telephone girls visited the station garbed in so conspicuous a skirt that the service was temporarily.

Such a visitor to the INDEX office wouldn't delay the game for an instant. But then, there are no girls employed in this office. So it seems that it's not always the men who are given to "rubbering."

TARIFF BILL PASSED

The Democratic tariff revision bill passed the Senate at 5:43 o'clock Tuesday afternoon amid a burst of applause that swept down from crowded galleries and found its echo on the crowded floor of the Senate. Its passage was attended with surprises in the final moments of the voting when Senator LaFollette, Republican, cast his vote with the Democrats and was joined a few moments later by Senator Poindexter, Progressive.

President Wilson expressed great gratification over the end of the long struggle in the Senate.

"Great," was the President's first remark as he went to his study and telephoned Secretary Simmons his hearty congratulations.

The President hopes to share the vacation which members of the Senate are about to take by going to Cornish, N. H. for a few days. Unless the Mexican situation develops an unexpected turn he will leave there Thursday.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, who piloted the bill through the finance committee, the Democratic caucus and the Senate, predicted that its passage would bring an immediate stimulus to the business of the country.

As it passed the Senate the tariff bill represents an average reduction of over 4 per cent from the rates of the original bill that passed the House and nearly 28 per cent from the rates of existing laws. In many important particulars the Senate has changed the bill that passed the House, and a conference committee of the two houses will adjust these differences. Leaders of both houses predict that the conference will consume less than two weeks' time.

PURCHASED A LINOTYPE

Owing to the rapidly increasing business of the San Mateo Index and Daly City Record, it became necessary to improve our producing facilities, so this week a new and first-class double deck and extra magazine Mergenthaler typesetting machine is being installed.

No country office in the State of California has a better machine and it is specially fitted for Briefs, Transcripts and every description of Legal and Commercial work.

American Road Congress

Mayor Branson of San Mateo has been requested by the Hon. Logan Waller Page, President of the American Road Congress and Director of the United States Office of Public Roads, to name three delegates to attend the sessions of the Congress at Detroit during the week of September 29 as representatives of the dity.

Twenty-eight great organizations are taking part in the Congress under the leadership of the American Highway Association and the American Automobile Association. In his letter to the Mayor, President Page calls attention to the fact that practically every state highway commissioner will be present and take part in discussing the important problems of road construction and maintenance, and that some of the foremost men in public life will devote their attention to the great question of national aid to road improvement in an endeavor to work out a policy which may be submitted to the Congress of the United States with the support of the organized road movement of America. The Secretary of Agriculture, Hon. David F. Houston, will be the spokesman of the national administration at the Congress. An important move bearing upon state legislation will be made at the session to be held under the auspices of the American Bar Association, at which steps will be taken toward the formation of an official interstate commission for codifying and simplyfying state road laws.

President Page calls attention to the exhibits to be made by the United States government, the states and nearly a hundred of the leading manufacturers of the Congress which will illustrate every known method, material and equipment for road construction and maintenance. He urges the city and county to be officially represented, as the Congress is in realty a training school where a very great amount of useful information can be obtained through attendance at lectures, inspection of exhibits, conferences with leading specialists in road and street work, and the collecting of the many instructive bulletins and documents which will be available for distribution.

The headquarters of the Congress are in the Colorado Building, Washington, D. C., in charge of J. E. Pennybacker, General Secretary.

Auto Collides With Pole

Mrs. Sam Hume, wife of a salesman for a San Francisco paint firm, was thrown out of an automobile and rendered unconscious besides being badly bruised and cut when the machine collided with a pole Tuesday night. The lights went out in a dark part of the road and Hume, who was driving, could not stop in time to prevent the accident.

Prevention Better Than Punishment

The tragedy on the Great Highway in which a woman was killed and her brother frightfully injured by a recklessly driven automobile, emphasizes the frequent declaration of the Examiner that criminally careless driving should be stopped. This journal has offered a large cash reward for the arrest and conviction of the wretch who drove away in the darkness, leaving his victims to the care of chancecomers, and it hopes yet to see him in the prison stripes he deserves.

But the punishment of this murder and the punishment of other moral idiots who slay and mangle persons going about their business on the highways and streets, will not put life in the dead nor assauge the anguish of the living and related.

These fools must not be allowed to so kill and maim. They must not only be punished after the the event; they must be prevented before the event.

The work of prevention is easy. The inferior courts are to blame for the work of those manslayers. The petty judges are content to inflict a fine in cases which deserve a jail sentence. They will not do their duty and the only apparent resource is to make them do it, by repealing the penalty of fine or imprisonment and making a jail sentence the only punishment for speed maniacs.

The toll of human life and human limb taken by these manslayers has grown too large to be paid any longer.

Put the next fool who drives his heavy car at headlong speed over highways and streets in jail, and let him cool his heels while he looks out through the disgraceful bars. Then follow him up with as many more as may be necessary to impress even upon the dull brain of a speed fool that the community is determined to restrain lunatics, if it has to build jails to hold them all.

It will not be long then until citizens can go about on the public highways in safety.—Examiner.

Auto Speeder Arrested

Frank Fries, a San Francisco capitalist and director of the Beresford Country Club, was arrested in Burlingame Tuesday for driving his automobile several notches faster than the limit allowed by law. He was released on his own recognizance and will appear Saturday for a hearing.

Governor's Slayer Seeks a Pardon

Harry Orchard, who on December 30, 1906, set of the bomb that killed ex-Governor Steunenburg, has applied for a pardon from the Idaho state penitentiary, where he is serving a life sentence. Since his incarceration Orchard has professed religion and the Metropolitan Church Association has been active in his behalf.

San Bruno Items

By the Yellow Critic.

Belmont is soon to have a no-license election. Same here.

Mrs. Klien of Belle Air is on a visit to Denver, visiting near relatives.

San Mateo County People's Railway, owned by all the people, is on the way too.

Mrs. Pfluger has taken a sea voyage to San Diego for the benefit of her health.

The only good railroads are those owned by the people for the benefit of the people.

Now honest, don't it give you the shivers to pass by our dismally appearing churches closed four-fiths of the time?

Mr. Marbel of the Interstate Commerce Commission, gave us a short talk that was interesting and instructive also.

Mrs. Holliday journeyed to Redwood Tuesday in the interest of the Ladies Aid in protest to the proposed saloon at Baradat's.

San Bruno, a city of the sixth class, governed by San Bruno's residents. Dont that sound good? Might as well get used to it.

Skating on the sidewalk is good exercise for the children. That is what will happen when we get smooth sidewalks by incorporation.

Our enterprising young farmer, Joe Yaro, had bad results with the last well he bored. After much hard work and expense no water was found.

South San Francisco, through Mr. Cunningham, is negotiating for a new up-to-date fire system to cost $5,000. Who said they wanted to disincorporate?

If the S. P. gardener who beautifies the surroundings of the South City depot could only see his way clear to treat our depot likewise, wouldn't it be great.?

There seems to be an epidemic of boils here. Warren Custer returned from vacation with a beauty. Chris Fagan has 'em too. He says it was by gripping his automobile seat.

Our good natured Belle Air neighbor got quite a shock last Monday when he presented his August unused commute tickets for a rebate to Agent O'Connor when he found out he owed the company 10 cents instead of them owing him.

Quite a number of our people journeyed to Redwood City Tuesday. The clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Joe Nash, and County Clerk of this county, is the most idolized native son in the county, and he deserves it too. If he would only face the audience when he goes through the order of business, he could be heard better and would make him more popular than ever, if that is possible.

The Radicals' Club gave a banquet last Monday night at the Cosmos. 100 guests were present. Hyrdel of Stanford was master of ceremonies, Austin Lewis chairman. Professor Nois was speaker of the evening, followed by Francis J. Heney.

Mrs. Harry Grady's confidence in mere man was very much shocked last week. Peach trees that bear fruit are quite a novelty in San Bruno. Well, Mrs. Grady has one of those novelties, so she invited her best friend to help her pick the fruit. But alas, when they got ready to pick it they discovered some one had been there before them.

San Bruno had a misterious visitor last week, unusually well dressed in black broadcloth, silk hat and so on. He looked up and down the different streets, but said nothing. Finally my curiosity prompted me to ask him what his business was. He said he was an undertaker and from the looks of the town, he could see it would soon have to be buried and he was looking for the job of burying it, but when I told him we were soon to be incorporated he said, "That settles it," and took the next car to the city.

Fire Chief Bartlett's Vacation

Chief George A. Bartlett of the San Mateo Fire Department, the oldest fire chief in the State in point of years in service, left Tuesday on his first vacation in twenty-six years. To roam at will, to cast line where trout are thickest and to shoulder the shotgun will be the sole occupations of the veteran fire fighter for one whole week. He will be the guest of his son at Coalinga.

During his lengthy term as head of the local fire fighting organization, Chief Bartlett has missed only two fires. He has led his men bravely and has a long list of courageous acts to his credit. He has in all, with the assistance of his men, put out 2251 fires. A coincidence was the fact that during 1906, the year of San Francisco's big fire, San Mateo did not have a single blaze.

Chief Bartlett was instrumental in the organization of this city's fire department in 1887. At that time the equipment consisted of a few feet of hose and a few buckets. A year later Bartlett was chosen chief and has never yielded office.

COAST SIDE OF SAN MATEO CO.

What Our Neighbors Along the Pacific's Shore Have Been Doing, Are Doing and Will Do

Joe Fleming of Tobin killed a 100 pund deer in the mountains near his home one day last week.

W. G. Stewart returned from his business trip to Utah. He reports it hotter than "that" there. He and his wife leave for Alaska in the near future.

There is some talk of a new hotel being built at Princeton within the near future so as to accomodate the big patronage, the present hotel being inadquate.

H. Woodword has closed up his buiess affairs in San Francisco and permanently taken a position with the Mane View Tavern. He is one of the best caterers in California.

Mical and dramatic entertainment to given Saturday evening September th, at Montara-Farallone school hou Pianist, Mrs. Canfield of Farallo Violinist, Mr. E. R. Rowe of Alanda, and Miss Beatrice Johns of San ancisco, elocutionist.

DR. Dunbar, proprietor of Dunbar' Hotel, Fairfax, Marin county, with wife spent several days at Princeton last week looking over the situat. Mr. Dunbar is a man of great hotel experience and stated that in his opinion a great future is in store for the each resort.

The eastside towns are beginning alread make preparations for a big Fourth July celebration next year. The celebration will last four days and the events will be divided among the various towns along the ocean shore. A permanent organization to have general charge of the arrangements has been formed. The officers are: H. C. P. Morse, president; J. L. Posey, secretary; A. S. Hatch, treasurer, and an executive committee consisting of J. A. Flink, G. E. Dunn, A. M. Croop, John J. Gomes, W. Mowry, Fred Vallejo and C. P. Mosconi.

On Sunday, August 30, about 4,000 delegates of the Mail Carriers, together with the Woman's Auxuliary representing 30,000 employes of the United States Government, then holding their Convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers in San Francisco, had their annual picnic at Princeton-by-the-Sea.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo County at Redwood, the 2d inst., the petition of the Triangle district for permission to hold a special election September 23d for the purpose of voting upon the levying of a tax to install a lighting system in the district embracing Farallone, Montara, Moss Beach, Princeton and Marine View.

OPEN SHOP UNFAIR

Its Real Purpose to Wipe Out Trade Unionism.

THE PHRASE MISLEADING.

Ostensibly It Means a Workshop Where Organized and Unorganized Toilers Work Together In Harmony. A Fallacy Exposed.

In a recent issue the Springfield (Ill.) Daily Record pays its respects to the much lauded open shop as follows:

As a phrase "the open shop" sounds well.

But it is entirely misleading.

Ostensibly it means a shop where union men and nonunion men work side by side in perfect harmony and for fair wages.

But there never was such a shop and never will be.

For union labor cannot work alongside nonunion labor (and under conditions which demand that the union shall be ignored) without becoming nonunion labor.

The union shop is a closed shop and makes no pretense to the contrary, for in a union shop the unions insist that none but union labor shall be employed and make no concealment of the fact.

The open shop also is a closed shop, for, even as the union shop is closed to nonunion labor, so is the open or nonunion shop closed to union labor.

Of course the advocates of the so called open shop do not admit these facts.

Instead they set up the fiction that there is no good reason on earth why a union man cannot work in an open shop.

They ignore the mighty fact that the union man can enter an open shop only by ignoring his union and by repudiating his unionism.

The Record has no use for pretense.

It does not believe any good purpose ever was served by petty subterfuge.

Hence it believes that the whole community should be told the truth, and the truth in the present instance is that the fight for the so called "open shop" is a fight against unions.

Just that and nothing more!

The purpose of the fight is to put the unions out of business, so far as the crafts affected are concerned.

The Record tries to be equitable.

It realizes that if union labor has its right the employers also have theirs.

It recognizes the fact that the union labor leaders have made some serious mistakes and that not all their demands have been based on a fair consideration of the conditions involved.

But, recognizing these things, the Record also recognizes that there is no good reason for and no real fairness in the present determined attempt to crush union labor by means of the "open shop" policy.

The claim is made that just as good wages are paid in the "open shop" as in the union shop.

Taken as a rule, the claim is without merit.

It is true that high wages usually are paid while the effort is being made to establish the "open shop" and defeat the unions.

But once these objects are accomplished high wages usually drop to low wages.

The Record is for Springfield first, last and all the time—for Springfield capital as well as for Springfield labor.

And because it is for Springfield it pledges itself to do everything within its power to defeat the attempt to crush the local unions.

For if that attempt succeeded it would be found, in the final degree, that the result would be disastrous to the city as a whole.

It has been argued that the unions, with their higher wages, check the growth of a town.

It is not in evidence that they do; but, even if they did, for one the Record sooner would see Springfield a smaller city of fair paid, contented men and women than see it a larger city made up of underpaid, discontented toilers.

There can be no lasting prosperity for any community unless that prosperity reaches down to the great masses that work and who, after all, are the chief capital of any city.

PROTECT WOMEN WORKERS.

Laws that will protect the working women against starvation wages will protect honest employers. And, what is far more important, such laws will protect the coming generation and the future of this country.

It will be said that men are underpaid also, that disorganized labor suffers and that the wives and children of the laborer suffer in the competition of low wages. That is true.

But one step at a time is man's way of walking. And one step at a time is the government's way of lawmaking.

Protect the women and girls, compel payment of decent wages, jail the man who hires a girl or woman for less than it costs her to live decently or who works her so hard as to leave no energy in her body for the duties of motherhood and you will have made a good beginning.—Arthur Brisbane.

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

Those who desire to foist upon labor a minimum wage must produce better and more substantial arguments than those based upon the idea that the morals of our working women are to be measured by the scale of wages prevailing.

If these people are serious and really bent upon doing something that will be beneficial to the working women rather than advertise themselves let them expend about one-half the energy they are now wasting in an endeavor to institute organizations among them. Organization will do far more for them than a statute establishing a minimum wage for women workers.

Above and beyond all other considerations, however, let there be a stop put to the present disposition to slander the womanhood of America by continually asserting their morals are a mere matter of dollars and cents, of food and clothing, of convenience and comfort. Away with such rot!—Labor Clarion.

A HARD ONE TO ANSWER.

Why Are Not All Workers Members of a Labor Union?

In the Citizen of recent issue a well known labor leader reported his little daughter as asking, "Papa, why do not all men join the union?" After confessing his own perplexity and his inability to find an answer satisfactory to himself he requested one.

It is not an easy question to answer.

When it is asked why are not all men angels or why do not the rich men give away their money it is easy to answer, for it is well understood that all men are selfish and very human.

But when it is asked why do not men take advantage of the best means to get more wages, shorter hours and better conditions it is a puzzle, sure enough.

The selfish human heart cannot be the answer, for that would prompt a man to better his condition whenever opportunity offered.

"The other men will do the work and pay the dues, and I will come in on it without its costing me anything in time or money."

Can it be? It is hard to believe it for the reputation of our kind.

That would not be a selfish human heart. It would be the heart of a swine, not of a man, which could deliberately and unconsciously let others put bread into his mouth by struggle and sacrifice while he stands away from it all.

No; let us for the sake of our common humanity find some other reason.

It is better to accuse the head than the heart.

Some people have not gray matter enough to see beyond the end of their noses. The penny they would be compelled to pay in dues crowds out of sight the five dollar gold piece within reach of the hand.

The hour's time they would spend bearing the common burden makes them forget the many hours' time they could gain by taking a man's place beside their brothers.

Self interest is another thing, or the same thing grown to man's size.

Intelligent self interest is the fulcrum which moves the world.

When the brains and hearts of the workers are grown to full man's stature all men will not only be in a great worldwide, all embracing union, but all will vote in solid phalanx, and this earth will at last belong to all the children of men.

Yours is a hard question, little one! But it is being answered by the hard knocks which make men think.

When they think and act you and all the wee ones like you will be saved from much that now makes the path before your feet a hard, rough path.

Speed the way!—Los Angeles Citizen.

The Mulhall Revelations.

For years we have from time to time mentioned the vituperative attacks made upon organized labor by the National Association of Manufacturers under the leadership of Parry, Post, Van Cleave and Kirby. The vindictiveness of these men would naturally lead us to expect them to go to extremes, but we were hardly prepared for the revelations of Martin M. Mulhall, who appears to have been employed by the manufacturers to lobby against labor legislation, to defeat congressmen and senators who favored labor legislation and to elect candidates favorable to employing interests and to spend money for bribery and other purposes in connection with the same. These serious charges are denied by the Manufacturers' association, but they seem to be supported by documentary evidence and particularly by correspondence which Mulhall is turning over to the investigating committee of the United States senate. Before the investigation is over there is promise that some of the notable characters of industry will become notorious.—Shoe Workers' Journal.

Labor Unions of Norway.

Labor organizations of Norway number 60,378 members. The increase during the year 1912 was 7,263. There was an increase among all the different organizations, but the largest was among the common laborers, being 1,680. The railroad and metal organizations are second with an increased membership of 1,221 during the year.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE-STUDY-ON

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

Exodus 20:12-21—Sept. 14.

*"Thou shalt love * * * thy neighbor as thyself."—Luke 10:27.*

THE Ten Commandments were written upon two stone tablets. One bore the first four commandments, appertaining to God; the other, the remaining six, appertaining to humanity. The essence of these last six was expressed in Jesus' words, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Whoever loves his neighbor will not intentionally injure him in act, word or thought. Hence, Love expresses the full measure of the requirements of the Law. (Romans 13:10.) Love is at liberty to do more than the Law requires, but cannot do less.

While only Christians are credited by the Lord with fulfilling the requirements of the Law—because of the allowance made for their weaknesses on account of their relationship with Christ—nevertheless, the Jews and many others have been blessed in proportion as they endeavored to fulfill the Law. Hence it is wise and proper to lift high the Divine standards.

Honor Father and Mother.

All parents are deserving of consideration from their children. Yet, of course, the degree of respect must depend upon the character of the parents, to some extent. With disobedience to parents rank and rampant everywhere, it may seem a hard saying, but we believe it true, that the child's disobedience is due to the parent or the guardian.

"Thou shalt do no murder."

The child may have been ill-born. Discontent and rebellion in the mother's mind during the period of gestation may have so marked the child that no amount of training may fully recover it. In such a case parents may well be patient with unhappy, disobedient dispositions in their children.

Perhaps the parents were only partially to blame. Perhaps their minister did not preach the laws of God, their human operation and the penalties of their violation, but gave flowery essays and anecdotes containing neither food for the spiritual nature nor assistance in understanding and combating the human weaknesses. Perhaps the father forgot that he had a duty toward his offspring, chiefly served by assisting his wife to thoughts of kindness, gentleness, nobility, etc.

A modern writer of influence holds that Sunday Schools, while accomplishing good in one direction, have also weakened the respect of children for parents and released parents from appreciation of their parental responsibilities. One hour per week in Sunday School cannot take the place of continual parental supervision.

Statistics show that boys from sixteen to twenty years old constitute about one-third of all dangerous criminals, and that their proportionate number is increasing. Hence benevolent people should especially co-operate with the Divine command by encouraging obedience to parental authority.

"Thou Shalt Do No Murder."

Nothing in this command forbids the necessary killing of animals. Neither does it forbid the execution of criminals, for thus it would conflict with Divine Law elsewhere expressed, and practised by Divine direction.

This commandment teaches that life is to be prized, not jeopardized. Its spirit, Jesus declared, forbids an angry, murderous spirit, restrained merely by fear of consequences. This commandment makes it incumbent upon those employing labor or having supervision of others to safe-guard against accidents. To allow self-interest or love of money to perpetuate dangerous conditions is to violate this commandment.

Commit Not Adultery.

One result of man's fall has been depravity of sexual appetites—unchastity, lack of self-control. These tendencies lead away from God and righteousness. The family unit of one husband and one wife, originally established in Eden, is a corner stone of righteousness in both family and national life.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal."

To steal is to take from another his possessions. Some subtle forms of theft are through stock speculations, fake companies organized to take advantage of others, etc. Making false returns to the tax assessor is stealing. So are smuggling and failure to give agreed upon services for wages received. But the worst form of theft is stealing another's good name, in violation of the Scriptures.

"Thou shalt not steal."

"Bear No False Witness."

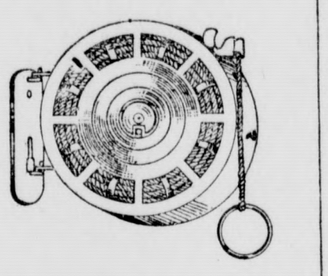
Daily is the spirit of this injunction violated, not only in misrepresenting what we wish to sell or buy, but by indirect statements, by a nod, a shrug, or by silence when it is understood to mean consent.

"Thou Shalt Not Covet."

Covetousness is a heart disease which has to do with every crime; for sins have their basis in selfishness, which is covetousness. Whoever would keep the spirit of God's Law must guard against covetousness.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Clothesline Reel That Winds Up Automatically.



Sure to be appreciated by the busy woman is the automatic clothesline reel patented by a Connecticut man. When the clothes are down all that need be done is release the line from the posts and it will wind itself up in a few moments. The reel is made on the principle of the spring tape measure, and, of course, is operated by a spring. The line is wound on a circular metal support with a hinged connection by which it can readily be attached to wall or any upright, and it swings to left and right of this. The line feeds out over a guide and has a ring at the free end to prevent its being wound up too much. By releasing the spring the line can be paid out as necessary to fasten it around the posts. By setting the spring the wheel will revolve and wind the line up.

Pudding Sauces.

Orange Sauce.—Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff; add a cupful of powdered sugar and continue beating; add the rind and juice of two oranges and the juice of a lemon.

Molasses Sauce.—A cupful of molasses and one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter boiled together five minutes; remove from the heat and add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice or a tablespoonful of vinegar.

Cream Sauce.—Beat together until thick a fourth of a cupful of milk and three-fourths of a cup of thick cream; add a third of a cup of powdered sugar and a half teaspoonful of vanilla.

Foamy Sauce.—Cream half a cupful of butter, add a cupful of powdered sugar, an egg well beaten and a tablespoonful of vanilla. Beat while heating over hot water.

Chicken Pudding.

Cut up two young chickens, stew until tender, season, take from the broth, remove all large bones. Put the meat in a buttered baking dish, add bits of butter and pour over the following batter: Four eggs, beaten light; one quart milk, three tablespoonfuls melted butter, one teaspoonful salt and two of baking powder and enough sifted flour to make a batter like griddlecake. Bake an hour in moderate oven. Make gravy of the broth by thickening with flour and serve.

Piccalilli.

Slice one peck of green tomatoes and six onions in thin slices and with one teacup of salt, pack in layers of tomatoes, onions and salt, and let stand overnight. In the morning pour off the liquid that has formed, add four sliced green peppers. Put the whole in a porcelain lined kettle, add one pint vinegar, one pound brown sugar, one tablespoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and white mustard seed. Cook until soft, seal while hot.

Maryland Fried Chicken.

Cut the chicken in joints, salt and pepper, stew in enough hot water to keep from burning, cover closely and set on back of stove to steam for one hour. Have ready a hot spider, remove chicken from saucepan and brown in butter or lard, remove to platter and pour in the spider any liquid that may remain in saucepan; thicken with flour and add one and one-half pint of milk, season to taste and pour on chicken.

To Keep Fresh Fruit.

Do not throw away the partitioned cartons in which eggs are sometimes bought by the dozen. These boxes serve to keep delicate fruit—peaches, plums and even small apples or pears—from coming in contact with each other in the icebox. A fruit which is overripe, though to only an almost imperceptible extent, may communicate that taint to its next door neighbor if contact be permitted.

Preserved Quinces.

Pare and quarter, taking out cores and all hard parts. Boil in clear water until tender; spread out to dry. Allow a half pound of sugar and one-third cupful of water to each pound of fruit. When the sirup boils put in the fruit, set on the back of stove and cook slowly for an hour, if not too tender, as the longer they cook the brighter will be the color. Seal hot.

To Whiten Linen.

Handkerchiefs and white clothes that have become yellow from the use of too much soap or any other cause may be whitened in the following manner: After washing let them soak over night in a tub of clear water to which is added a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. When ironed they will be found as white as snow.

Plot and Counterplot

A Story of the Russian Revolution.

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Peter Polizoff and Alexis Alexandrovich were students at the university at St. Petersburg, Russia. They were bosom friends and both members of a revolutionary circle; indeed, Alexandrovich was its president and the conductor of its secret movements in behalf of the revolution. Polizoff was two years younger than his friend and of a far less rugged nature. His confidence in Alexis was absolute, and his affection for him was supreme.

This was at a time when the revolution was brewing and when those instigating it were straining every nerve, taking every risk, to bring it about. On the other hand, the government was aware of what was going on, the police were hunting them down, and, when caught in their work or informed upon, they were hurried off to Siberia without even the semblance of a trial.

One night at a meeting of the circle to which the two friends belonged Alexandrovich addressed the members:

"We are like men in a frail boat passing down fierce rapids. At any moment the hand of the government may fall upon any one of us or all of us. We cannot even trust one another. I would not be surprised to see that door broken in by the police, they having been directed here by some one looking at me at this very moment. For there is one thing we cannot guard against—that is, emissaries of the government joining our circle under pretense of being revolutionists for the purpose of betraying us.

"WILL YOU GO FOR MY SAKE?"

"There is another matter to which I desire to call your attention. It may be necessary for some one or more of us to be sacrificed to save the others. For the work of the circle may go on without a part, whereas if the whole is crushed, so far as this organization is concerned, its efforts will cease. Be prepared, then, for that which you will not understand. If any one of you is betrayed suspend judgment as to the guilt or innocence of the betrayer, for you cannot know, may never know, whether you are betrayed to serve the purposes of the government or the circle."

Alexandrovich spoke the words with evident feeling, for he had got wind of the fact that they had a government spy among their number. He had formed a counter plan by which to save the main body of the circle by betraying to the government two or three of its members, including the spy, it being necessary to betray real revolutionists in order to make good its assertion that the spy, though pretending to work for the government, was really working for the revolutionists.

The plotting and counterplotting lasted longer than was expected, and Alexandrovich's scheme was delayed. Most of the members who had heard the warning either forgot it in the contemplation dangers to which they were exposed or looked upon it as a remote possibility. He never referred to it again, considering once enough. His whole being was enlisted in the cause. He had an iron will and was able to endure any evil himself or inflict any evil upon another in the service of civil liberty.

Alexandrovich had a younger sister, Katia. The Polizoff and Alexandrovich families had been friends for years, and Peter Polizoff and Katia had grown up together. From playmates they had become lovers. Katia lived in terror for her lover and her brother, knowing that they were both revolutionists and liable to suffer what she considered worse than death—that is, being sent in chains to work in the mines in Siberia.

One day Katia ran breathlessly into the home of her lover and found him at his studies. She was as white as ashes.

"What is it?" exclaimed Peter, starting up.

She tried to speak, but failed. He clasped her in his arms and caressed her till she found her voice and said in broken sentences:

"Go away from here, for heaven's sake—for my sake! Go at once!"

"Why?"

"You have been betrayed!"

"By whom?"

"I cannot tell."

"I must know."

"True; if you remain in ignorance that you have been betrayed by a friend you are likely to fall into his hands."

"I? Betrayed by a friend?"

"Yes."

"What friend?"

Her head fell on his breast. She tried to speak the name, but could not. At last, barely audible, it came:

"My brother."

"Alexis?"

"Alexis."

"Katia, you can never make me believe that."

"Then you are lost."

"I would rather go to the mines, a slave, than lose my faith in my friend."

"I know that he has betrayed you."

"How?"

"A man is now with him whose appearance I did not like from the moment I saw him. Dreading always some trouble for Alexis, I feared the visitor intended no good. Alexis took him up to his room. There is a door between it and the adjoining chamber. I went into this apartment, lay on the floor and put my ear to the interval between the door and the lintel. I heard Alexis tell the man that you and several others were members of a revolutionary circle."

This information coming from his betrayer's sister and his own betrothed stunned Polizoff. Katia was now obliged to sustain him instead of being sustained by him. When he had regained something of his composure he asked:

"Do you know your brother did this?"

"I do. I heard his voice, which I know only too well."

"Was anything said about my arrest?"

"No, but the blow is liable to fall at any moment. Go at once. A minute's delay may be fatal."

"No; I will remain. There has been some mistake. I cannot believe Alexis is base. He is all that is noble."

"Will you go for my sake?"

He looked into her eyes and consented. He was holding her in a parting embrace when there was a knock at the door. Katia pushed her lover through an opening; he entered a rear garden, crawled through a fence and gained a street.

Katia remained where she was, taking up a book and pretending to read. A servant went to the door, opened it, and a police officer, attended by several assistants, stepped into the hall. He did not ask any questions, but, sending a man through to the garden in the rear to shut off escape in that direction, with the others proceeded to go through the house. After a thorough search, not finding the object of it, he withdrew.

Alexandrovich had informed on three other persons, including the spy. His testimony was weakened by the escape of Peter Polizoff, who was known to be his friend, but since he was kept under surveillance by the government from the time he gave the information to the attempted arrest it was not believed that he had warned the man he accused. Indeed, as soon as the accusation was made a party was sent to arrest Polizoff.

As soon as the officials who had failed to find Peter retired, Katia, who was not known to them as Alexandrovich's sister, left the house and later in the day went home. She found her brother there, but the man to whom he had betrayed his friends had gone. Alexis looked at his sister eagerly and asked where she had been. Between a brother and a lover a woman will stand against the one and for the other. Katia, with fire in her eye, accused him of his treachery and showered imprecations upon him. Then, remembering that her brother had degraded himself, she burst into a passion of tears.

"You warned him?" asked Alexis.

"Yes."

"And he escaped?"

"He did."

"Thank heaven! I did not intend that he should; it was not in the plan. But I doubt if I shall be believed to have warned him."

"What do you mean?" asked Katia.

Her brother told her that a spy had got into the circle and was ready to betray every member. Playing government spy, Alexis had gained the confidence of the government by denouncing his best friend and two others besides the spy, who, with the rest, would be sent at once to Siberia.

"And now," he concluded, "comes the second part of my plan. I must rescue the innocent members of our circle on their way to Siberia."

The record of the attempt to rescue the revolutionists on their way to Siberia, an attempt that was participated in by Peter Polizoff and in which Katia played the part of an arch deceiver, forms a story by itself.

The spy went on to the mines. Whether he ever succeeded in convincing the government that they had made a mistake in his case is not known. But one fact is certain—not one of those concerned in the plot that sent him to Siberia ever afterward dared live in Russia. Every one of them today is living in the United States.

TRADE UNIONISM.

The insistent and consistent policy of the trade union movement has secured for the working people whatever of uplift and betterment has made their lives freer and happier.

This policy has been one of uncompromising protest and agitation against every form of wrong, injustice or denial of rights.

In the economic field this policy has resulted in effective and triumphant contest. It has inspired workers with the desire, the purpose and the grit to struggle and battle for material improvements in the form of higher wages, fewer hours of labor, better conditions of employment.

In the political field the policy has been to avoid alliance with any political party, but to utilize all parties, whenever an opportunity is presented, to remedy wrong or inaugurate new and better policies in legislation, administration or judicature.

The American Federation of Labor has always been maintained untrammeled, unrestricted, free to criticise, attack or denounce men, employers, parties, whenever the welfare and the interests of the workers have been menaced.—Samuel Gompers.

INADEQUACY OF WAGES.

Adult Cotton Mill Workers of Massachusetts Underpaid.

Fall River, Mass., one of the great centers of cotton manufacturers, was the object of two investigations in 1908. One was made by the federal bureau of labor relative to standards of living. The other concerned wages and was made by the state bureau of statistics. As this is probably the only place in the United States wherein such investigations have run concurrently, Scott Nearing, a Pennsylvania writer on economic subjects, finds it interesting to contrast the two and to draw conclusions from them. Writing in the Survey, he finds that Fall River contained 29,758 wageworkers in 1908, of whom 80 per cent were engaged in the cotton industry. These were one-fourth of all the employees in that industry in Massachusetts.

The statistics of average wages showed a comparatively slight variation for cotton mill operatives in the leading manufacturing towns, the average annual wages for adult males for the entire state being $439.34, for Fall River $447.40, for Lawrence $437.54, for Lowell $444.77 and for Winchester $433.74. It is fair, then, to compare the wage statistics of the cotton industry in the state with the standards of living established in Fall River, though it should be remembered that the Fall River wages are slightly higher than those of the entire industry in the state.

From the statistics compiled Mr. Nearing concludes that three-fifths of the adult males in the cotton industry of Massachusetts—and by inference of Fall River—earned less than $416 a year, nine-tenths earned less than $624 a year, while only three in 100 earned more than $816 a year. "Compare these figures," he says, "with the $484.41, minimum standard, and the $690.95, efficiency standard, established for Fall River by the federal study, and it appears that the wages earned by the males over twenty-one years of age are in a majority of instances insufficient to maintain a minimum standard and in over nine-tenths of the cases insufficient to maintain a fair standard for a family of three children.

"Statisticians," he adds, "will explain that such a comparison is crude. It is crude. They will object that the basis, in fact, is not adequate to warrant the conclusion. That is true. They will insist that inference has no place in statistical literature. No objection could be more justifiable. Nevertheless, in the face of such valid criticism, the fact remains that the one case in which comparable statistics of standards and wages are available confirms the impression of the generl statistics regarding the utter inadequacy of the wages of many adult males to provide efficiency or even subsistence for their families."

Labor Not Involved.

Labor has nothing to fear from the lobby investigation now going on at Washington. That labor has been a petitioner for legislation in favor of men has been well known, and the representatives of organized labor at Washington, who are there to ask support for labor measures, were known to every public man. There was no secrecy about it. It was also known that the labor representatives had no money with which to bribe or debauch, but were there solely in the right of citizenship to make an appeal. There is quite a difference between the appeal of a citizen and the bribe of a lobbyist.

Metal Workers Amalgamate.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Tin Plate Workers' International Protective association and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers are merged into one organization. Final negotiations were carried out recently at amalgamated headquarters in Pittsburgh. By the terms of the agreement the tin plate workers are issued charters by the Amalgamated association with no extra cost to the individuals except for the insurance. Former President W. S. Hunt will act as organizer for that branch of the industry.

FOUNDER OF LABOR DAY.

Terence V. Powderly Says the Honor Belongs to a Coal Miner.

According to Terence V. Powderly, for many years head of the Knights of Labor, Labor day had no "father." There has been a friendly controversy in labor circles as to who was its founder.

"The man who named the day was Robert Price, a coal miner," said Mr. Powderly. "This occurred in New York city Sept. 5, 1882. The general assembly of the Knights of Labor was meeting in New York. Matthew McGuire, secretary of the Central Labor union of New York, invited the general assembly to review a parade of workingmen. As general master workman, or head of the organization, I placed the invitation before the general assembly, and it was unanimously accepted.

"We went to the reviewing stand. Bob Price, one of the workers of the Knights of Labor, sat near me. He was a big fellow, standing six feet three inches. Next to me on the opposite side was Richard Griffith.

"As the parade was passing Price leaned over me and shouted to Griffith, 'This is Labor day in earnest, Uncle Dick.'

"That was the first time I had heard the expression 'Labor day.' The same evening we discussed informally the advisability of having a day set apart every year to be observed as Labor day. Other conferences followed. A decision was reached that it would be an excellent thing to have a day set apart, and the first Monday in September was agreed on as the day.

"The first bill introduced on the subject was by Edward F. Riley, a member of the New York state senate, on Jan. 4, 1887. The bill was passed by the legislature and approved by the governor May 6, 1887. Meanwhile I sent copies of the bill to the governors of all the states and to prominent members of the organization who were members of state legislatures.

"State Senator J. J. Daly of Oregon introduced a bill on Jan. 17, and it became a law in that state Feb. 21, 1887. Oregon, therefore, was the first state to pass a law creating a labor day. Other states followed. The federal law was not passed until 1894."

MASTER AND SLAVE.

Was Industry Made For Man, or Was Man Made For Industry?

If man is made for industry, then it is just that industry should be the master and man the slave. It is just that 500,000 men and women should be killed and injured annually while they minister to the industrial deity; it is fair that women toil long hours for a pittance; it is right that humanity writhe in agony under the goad of the industrial taskmaster.

If, on the other hand, industry was made for man, then it is just that man should be the master and industry the slave. It is fair that any calling which crushes men's bodies, destroys the souls of women and little children or takes a toll of life and joy greater than its contribution to the happiness of the community should be reformed or abolished.

Two thousand years ago Jesus rebuked the Pharisees and justified his disciples, who had picked corn on the Sabbath day, in these words: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." The world listens for the modern prophet who shall proclaim, "Industry was made for man, and not man for industry."—Scott Nearing in Everybody's Magazine.

Cost of the Paterson Strike.

The silk strike in Paterson, which originally involved 26,000 workers and lasted for five months, ended with loss to both sides. The strikers returned to the wages and the conditions they left on Feb. 25; they have a loss in wages of $5,600,000 to struggle against; the city of Paterson is out $50,000 spent for extra police protection, the manufacturers estimate their loss at $1,000,000 and admit it may take years for the Silk City to entirely regain its prestige as a manufacturing center.

New York Unions Growing.

Returns to the state labor department from the labor organizations of the state indicate that the number of labor organizations is increasing and the percentage of idleness among their members is on the decline. The reports show that on March 31 there were 2,530 labor organizations with a membership of 638,818, just sixty-one more organizations than were in existence on Sept. 30 last and 112,186 more members than on the same date.

TRADE UNION NOTES.

The teamsters' strike in Cincinnati has cost in loss of business many millions of dollars.

During the past year the Boot and Shoe Workers' union has paid in sick, death and disability benefits $100,000.

The British Medical association at its annual meeting seriously debated the advisability of organizing as a labor union.

Longshoremen of Philadelphia have deserted the I. W. W. and will affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

John P. Murphy, recently appointed postmaster of the United States senate, is a Tennessee printer and a member of the Typographical union.

The question of transferring the national headquarters of the Journeymen Tailors' union from Bloomington, Ill., to Indianapolis has been left to a referendum vote of the members.

Cookery Points

Poems In Pastry.

These recipes are from the notebook of a famous chef:

Wafer Gingerbread.

Pour seven fluid ounces of honey into a basin and mix in two ounces each of warm butter and moist sugar, half that quantity of ground sugar and lastly eight ounces of sifted flour. Then stir well until smooth. Turn out on to a greased baking sheet, rolling out very thin, and bake in a slow oven. Take out and cut into squares while still hot, roll the squares into shapes and slowly allow to get cold.

Summer Cookies.

Warm three-quarters of a pound of butter and beat it until creamy with a pound of powdered sugar. Mix in three beaten eggs and stir in slowly a pint of sifted flour and a tablespoonful of caraway seeds. Stir a teaspoonful of soda with a teacupful of milk, strain it, mix it with a half teacupful of cider and mix gradually with the other ingredients. Work the mixture well, adding more flour if required to bring it to the desired stiffness. Sprinkle flour on the bread board, place the paste on it, roll out and cut into rounds. Lay on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a quick oven. When a trifle browned they are done.

Bertha's Biscuits.

Put half a pound of flour in a basin, make a hollow in the center and work in the whites of three eggs, half a teacupful of cream, an ounce of sugar, a wineglassful of brandy and a little salt. When the dough is quite smooth cut into two inch rounds, prick all over with a fork and bake on a floured baking sheet in a hot oven. Serve cold.

Boston Cream Puffs.

To half a pint of water add a quarter of a pound of lard and a little salt and boil. Add a quarter of a pound of flour or a little more and stir over the fire for five minutes or until it becomes a smooth paste. Remove from the fire and mix in five eggs, one at a time. Drop small quantities of the mixture with a spoon on to slightly buttered baking tins, allowing an inch or so of distance between them. Put the sheet into a moderate oven and bake for twenty minutes. Open the puffs by making an incision in the side and fill with cream.

Corn Custard.

Have ready half a dozen ears of corn as young and milky as possible, two whole eggs and the yolk of another, a scant half teaspoonful of salt, one and a quarter cupfuls of milk and one and a half tablespoonfuls of sugar. After mixing thoroughly stir in the milk and bake the custard in cups or in a big earthen pudding dish, as preferred.

Hasty Bread.

Half a dozen delicious little loaves of bread may be made in a few minutes by any one who has half a pound of flour, a cupful of milk, a pinch of salt, a saucepan, a fork and a very hot oven. Place the flour and salt in the saucepan, take the fork in the right hand, and with the left pour in the milk gradually, stirring all the time, until you have a nice light, dry lump of dough. Knead gently with the hands and divide into six pieces, which may be shaped according to fancy, but much handling is not advisable. Dredge a shelf in the oven with flour, place the loaves on it and bake from twelve to fifteen minutes. If the flour is not self raising a good half teaspoonful of baking powder must invariably be used.

Savory Fish Salad.

The hearts of white lettuce, slices of marinated cucumber, endive, blanched and curled anchovies, stoned olives and pickled beetroot. Make a square block of the hearts of the lettuce and endive, arrange slices of marinated cucumber around the lettuce. Upon these place blanched, boned and curled anchovies. Into each anchovy lay a stoned olive. Screen the whole with square shaped pieces of beetroot and season with sugar, salt and a dash of pepper. This is better eaten with oil and vinegar than with mayonnaise sauce. Half lemons may be served with the salad.

Lobster and Shrimp Salad.

Arrange in a salad bowl the white leaves of the hearts of cabbage lettuce or cos lettuce, if small and young. Remove the meat from a freshly boiled lobster and divide into small pieces with two forks and place in little heaps upon the lettuce leaves. Between each heap lay slices of tomato and slices of beet root alternately, and upon these slices of hard boiled eggs. Make a mound in the center with a pint of freshly picked shrimps. Crown these with small green tufts of watercress. Send to table with small glass cups of mayonnaise.

When Potatoes Scorch.

If the water boils off potatoes and they become scorched, quickly set the agate or tin kettle in which they are cooked into another kettle of cold water. The potatoes will loosen from the bottom of the kettle and will not taste scorched.

Baked Cauliflower.

Mix cold cauliflower with rich cream or rather a thick white sauce, if you can't spare the cream; add salt and pepper to taste, pack into a dish, cover thickly with grated cheese and bake.

FOR THE TABLE.

Innovations That Are to Be Found In Shops.

LEG OF MUTTON HOLDER AND COMBINATION FORK.

The leg of mutton holder is quite an innovation that will be appreciated by the housewife. A horn handle to which is attached a steel clamp which is regulated by a small key is all there is to it. The clamp holds firm the bone of the leg and with perfect ease the meat can be carved.

The other queer looking object is a combination fork and knife for a one-handed person

Fall Bride's Traveling Suit.

Already tailors are busy in preparing costumes for the autumn. Oddly enough, black satin appears to be the favorite material for these, and next comes navy blue satin, then moire, very different from the rigid material so well known to our mothers. It is supple, soft and light. Though serge continues to hold its own and whipcord is among the highest of favorites, yet these satin costumes have some justification, being fairly strong and durable and yet quite light.

The little coats are quite short, and many have frills round the neck and edging the revers. Others are supplied with little fancy waistcoats, many in handsome embroideries, or, if not entirely composed of these, are simply bordered with them in the front.

Very elaborate jabots of lace or spotted net are also worn with these little coats. Black and white is beginning to supersede plain black and has taken on a new lease of life among the smart.

Early Autumn Hats.

Signs of the season's changes have their accurate sources in two quarters—the weather man and the fashion prophets. As to which is the more reliable authority is an open query, left that way for diplomacy's sake. Certain it is that the weather man can advise you on the wisdom of rubber shoes or a sunshade for tomorrow;

THE SENSATIONAL MODEL.

the fashion prophets can accurately tell what you will wear two months from now.

In your hats it will be mainly velvet, the richness of that material to be used in abundant contrast with chantilly lace and malines.

The sensational hat, however, of the season so far is to be seen in the illustration—the visor cap, with a black velvet puffed crown and visor front covered with heavy ribbed silk. The "prodigious" coque feather placed directly in front of the creation is startling enough to make this model felt wherever it is worn.

Favors Tax on Bachelor Maids.

A tax on bachelor maids as well as bachelors was advocated before the legislative committee on taxation in Massachusetts by Mrs. Frank W. Page, who described herself as an "old school marm." Women as well as men, she said, enjoyed freedom of life, and she said it was worth a tax of $5 a year to some of them to remain teaching school or working in the stores. Mrs. Page told the committee that 62 per cent of the men in Massachusetts who could afford marriage neglected to marry, most of them willfully.

ATTRACTING ATTENTION

How many of you daily paper readers read about the Diggs-Caminetti cases? Hold up your hands! Just about all of you seem to have done so, though several seem to be a little bashful abou admitting it. Well, its nothing to be ashamed of. You didn't do it because you are fond of scandal, or because they were "spicy," or for any of the reasons advanced by moralists. You did it because they were "played up" by the papers, because they had "scare heads" and pictures of the leading characters right where you would see them, because you saw them first when you opened your paper. You were interested in what the news mongers called your attention to.

Mr. Advertiser, doesn't this suggest something to you? If people can be interested in—made to read—some particular news feature because it is presented to them in a manner calculated to attract their attention, why couldn't people be interested in—made to buy—your particular line of goods by presenting their merits in a striking manner? Just try "playing up" your goods as the newspaper maker "plays up" his news, and note the results.

BETTER RAISE PEANUTS

Some persons who, naturally enough, are opposed to the single tax maintain standing arguments in favor of it. Every time we pass a vacant lot overgrown with weeds, broken bottles and tin cans, our belief in the justice and righteousness of the single tax is strengthened.

Our present system of taxation makes the man who beautifies the town and improves his property by buildings, lawns and gardens pay for the privilege, while the owner of the lot which produces weed seeds to be blown into the neighbors' gardens and acts as a repository for junk is especially favored by the assessor.

When we learn that the land and not the labor should be made to pay it will not be nearly so fashionable to own lots which are a public nuisance.

These newspapers, the SAN MATEO INDEX and DALY CITY RECORD, have joined the "Mergenthaler Don't Worry Club." That is, we are having installed a new and first-class double-deck, with the third magazine, fully equipped Linotype, one of the finest type-setting machines in use. The machine will be set up and in perfect working order Saturday, so that the next week's issues will be published with its assistance. "Visitors Welcome" will always be our motto, so come and see this wonderful machine and bring your friends. 316 B street, San Mateo.

In this age of enlightenment, when a doctor's certificate is prerequisite to the issuance of a marriage license, when dogs must be muzzled, when thousands of dollars are being spent on mosquito abatement, and health officers suggest the boiling of drinking water as a precautionary measure, will it not be in order to suggest the feasibility of an examination for would be motion picture theatre patrons and the rejection of all showing traces of garlic on the breath?

The long arm of the New York law seems to be having a peck o' trouble bringing Thaw the escaped lunatic, back into its jurisdiction. Thaw is a millionaire. If he were an ordinary working man, especially a union working man, it wouldn't take long to get him. But it wouldn't be constitutional to kidnap a millionaire.

The wisdom of the supervisors in estimating the amount of work they wished to perform of the $1,250,000 road bond issue during the present year and then insisting upon that amount, $352,000, being sold in one block, instead of risking pot luck in selling small portions at one time, appeals to every taxpayer.

Next month San Mateo will have a chance to declare itself on the question of progress. An election to decide for or against the issuing of $89,000 worth of bonds for the construction of a city hall, the building of bridges and the control of San Mateo creek will be held about October 14.

Glancing over the Coast Side Comet this line projected itself into our line of vision: "Is this your paper you are reading—" That's a whole sermon in a nutshell and we feel like repeating it for your benefit: "Is this your paper you are reading—"

The Supervisors wisely voted the two-mill tax levy for advertising San Mateo county and it is safe to say that they will as wisely arrange for its judicious disbursement.

Two hundred and sixteen million dollars in coin and bullion are stored away in the San Francisco mint. Wouldn't it be better if this vast sum were put in circulation?

American Road Congress

Mayor Branson of San Mateo has been requested by the Hon. Logan Waller Page, President of the American Road Congress and Director of the United States Office of Public Roads, to name three delegates to attend the sessions of the Congress at Detroit during the week of September 29 as representatives of the dity.

Twenty-eight great organizations are taking part in the Congress under the leadership of the American Highway Association and the American Automobile Association. In his letter to the Mayor, President Page calls attention to the fact that practically every state highway commissioner will be present and take part in discussing the important problems of road construction and maintenance, and that some of the foremost men in public life will devote their attention to the great question of national aid to road improvement in an endeavor to work out a policy which may be submitted to the Congress of the United States with the support of the organized road movement of America. The Secretary of Agriculture, Hon. David F. Houston, will be the spokesman of the national administration at the Congress. An important move bearing upon state legislation will be made at the session to be held under the auspices of the American Bar Association, at which steps will be taken toward the formation of an official interstate commission for codifying and simplyfying state road laws.

President Page calls attention to the exhibits to be made by the United States government, the states and nearly a hundred of the leading manufacturers of the Congress which will illustrate every known method, material and equipment for road construction and maintenance. He urges the city and county to be officially represented, as the Congress is in realty a training school where a very great amount of useful information can be obtained through attendance at lectures, inspection of exhibits, conferences with leading specialists in road and street work, and the collecting of the many instructive bulletins and documents which will be available for distribution.

The headquarters of the Congress are in the Colorado Building, Washington, D. C., in charge of J. E. Pennybacker, General Secretary.

The tragedy on the Great Highway in which a woman was killed and her brother frightfully injured by a recklessly driven automobile, emphasizes the frequent declaration of the Examiner that criminally careless driving should be stopped. This journal has offered a large cash reward for the arrest and conviction of the wretch who drove away in the darkness, leaving his victims to the care of chancecomers, and it hopes yet to see him in the prison stripes he deserves.

But the punishment of this murder and the punishment of other moral idiots who slay and mangle persons going about their business on the highways and streets, will not put life in the dead nor assauge the anguish of the living and related.

These fools must not be allowed to so kill and maim. They must not only be punished after the the event; they must be prevented before the event.

Chinese Accused of Offering Bribe

At Redwood City Monday Chin Quong, a Chinese gambler of Visitation Valley, was charged by Chief Deputy Sheriff John J. Shields with having tried to bribe him.

Last Friday the Oriental visited the residence of Shields and paid him $80 as a bribe. Quong agreed to pay Shields the sum of $100 monthly for purpose of having the officer notify him in advance of intended raids.

His bail was set at $1000. The preliminary hearing will be held on September 16.

PAY UP—Quite a number of our subscribers owe for the paper. The amounts are small, but when several hundred of them are added together, the same would be sufficiently large to cover all our obligations and that is our wish.

James Blaney, a brother of Mrs. Richard Harris, accompanied by his wife, are spending a few days in Daly City on their return from a two weeks' vacation in Southern California. Mr. Blaney is a faithful employe of the Southern Pacific at Sacramento, where they reside.

Monday afternoon a cottage on Irvington street near Templeton avenue was completely destroyed by fire and another adjoining was very badly damaged, entailing a loss of probably $1800 and $1200 respectively. The fire was said to have been caused by fumigating the cottage preparatory to moving in. The San Francisco fire department responded promptly and a little later, Co. 4, but owing to a lack of water pressure the fire fighters were badly handicapped.

The opening of the Peninsula Theatre Tuesday evening was a wonderful success, the seating capacity of 600 being taxed to its utmost limit at two performances, which seems remarkable for a city of only 5000 inhabitants. So intense was the interest in the new theatre that several hundred people waited outside, some of them nearly two hours, for the beginning of the second performance. The vaudeville was excellent and the movies fairly good. The machine used, being only temporary, was not first-class. Mr. Sun stated to the writer that in a few days he will have his new machine, which is the finest to be had, and then the pictures as well as the vaudeville will be perfect. The many floral tributes from friends made a beautiful scene, and they bespeak a prosperous career for the new playhouse, which is a credit to Daly City.

THE TRUSTEES OF DALY CITY

The trustees first convened as the Board of Equalization, when some discussion was engaged in relative to the doubling of the assessed valuations in Daly City. Attorney Morris stated that it would in no way affect the county assessment or cause any material increase in taxes, as the the tax rates would be lowered to about 60 cents where now it is $1.

The trustees then convened in regular session with all present except Green.

Freyer reported the clean-up of the lots of which he was greatly pleased, though deplored the fact that the piles of rubbish were left upon the streets.

The initial steps for the new sidewalks on Hillcrest Drive will be taken up next week.

It was reported that the gas company has installed pipes on Alpha avenue for a distance of about 300 feet without permit. Attorney Morris said that State Highway Commission has no right to grant permit of that nature beyond its right of way.

With reference to the statement that the highway was going to finish the three foot strips, Marshal Lucy said they were merely going to roll it.

It was reported that the gas company was getting contracts signed at $1.25 for gas. Morris declared that the people should not do so, inasmuch as the railroad commission was soon to be called upon to adjust the rates.

Attorney Morris was employed to proceed with the details of turning over all public utilities to the railroad commission.

The matter of laying water mains along Mission road was taken up and it was decided to advertise for the work.

Trustee Freyer requested Attorney Morris to read Section 878 of the Municipal Incorporation Acts and render an opinion. The purport of the section was a manditory requirement for the city clerk to make and publish a statement of the financial condition of the city at the close of each fiscal year, June 30. Mr. Freyer stated that the same had not been done either last year or this. Ross came to the clerk's rescue to the extent "that he had seen the statement last year," and the clerk excused himself by saying that he had been "unable to get the blanks in time and that they were so complicated that he had not had time to make the report." Landini put the kibosh on the clerk's unfortunate shortcoming by saying: "Oh, Smith, that's only a a call down."

Morris suggested a public playground for children, but no comment was made, other than a reference to the point of ground at the junction of Los Angeles and Los Olivos, that Mr. Freyer has been endeavoring to have improved for many months.

A citizen took the floor and wanted to know what right the city had to dump all the garbage, tin cans, etc., in the vicinity of South Park avenue. F. S. Knowles was blamed of course.

A communication from the Civic Betterment League calling attention to the unsanitary condition of a store on Hillcrest Drive and the same was referred to the marshal.

A detailed complaint of J. E. Kester regarding a building on Peoria street, that it was not being constructed properly. A motion was made to refer to the marshal. Freyer suggested that the owner of the new building should be notified, but was turned down, presumably because it was considered none of the owner's business.

Christina Ettlin applied for liquor license at her place, recently conducted by Wm. Raven. The application was filed.

A communication was read from Chas. R. Deiterick, secretary of the Railroad Commission, thanking Daly City for voting to turn over the public utilities to the Commission. Why this gratitude?

F. S. Knowles made application for renewal of liquor license. Marshal Lucy stated that the other saloon men did not understand the law, but would be on hand at next Monday's meeting.

Reports of marshal, clerk and treasurer were filed. The treasurer's report showed a balance of about $700, causing Landini to remark, "that is more than we had last year." But if the indebtedness was all paid, what then? By the way, that reminds us of the dismal howl to have the city's affairs under the first administration experted, and the result, showing that the first board of trustees had perfected a splendid city organization and accumulated real estate to the value of over $3,500, with only 1 cent discrepency, notwithstanding many infamous annoyances of the Orin Ford variety. Now, if the solid three just dared to, wouldn't an itemized statement of their transactions make interesting reading?

Landini wanted to know about the cow ordinance enforcement, remarking "that the city recorder was present but had sneaked off." Marshal Lucy stated that Judge Johnson had been quite sick and was still ailing, but that the cow cases would be attended to soon.

After allowing a lot of bills the meeting adjourned until next Monday evening.

San Mateo Items

Mrs J. L. Brown and Miss Lilla Harris of Daly City visited friends in San Mateo Sunday.

Ronnie Palin has purchased a beautiful little four-room cottage on C street and has been moving in.

Born on Tuesday, September 2, to the wife of W. C. Palin, a fine 9½-pound boy and Will is walking on all the streets of San Mateo at the same time.

☞ Those sending in local items will greatly increase the interest by giving the initials of people mentioned and at the same time be more satisfactory to them. *

The grand ball given by the Caledonian Club of San Mateo in Masonic Temple Tuesday night was well attended and proved to be one of the most enjoyable events of the year.

Rev. E. D. Talbott of the University of the Pacific will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church Sunday during the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. P. Stanley, who is attending the conference at Pacific Grove.

Westley Brown, the 13-year-old son of Supervisor W. H. Brown, died this Thursday morning. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, from St. Matthew's Catholic church. Interment St. John's cemetery, San Mateo.

Mrs David Stollery entertained a number of friends at her home on Minnie street last Friday afternoon. The diversion was new market whist. Mesdames Hickie, Hutching and Cummings won the prizes. Refreshments were served at 5 o'clock.

Next Thursday and Friday a dahlia show will be held under the auspices of the San Mateo Public Library in the main library room. Dahlias grow to perfection in this section and this exhibition will display them in all their glory, as September is the month during which they are at their best.

By the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. William Teal, W. P. Davidson is made a great-grandfather at the early age of 58 years. Mrs. Teal is the granddaughter of Mr. Davidson and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson, and all four generations are native Californians and all reside in San Mateo.

Editor Paul Pinkney, of our esteemed contemporary, the San Mateo Times, is away on a vacation basking in the sunshine of the Southland. He is visiting Los Angeles, the beaches and of course the famous Santa Catalina Island where the submarine gardens grow. During Brother Pinkney's absence Jack Bromfield is manipulating the Times editorial department.

San Mateo Defeats Mission Terrace

San Mateo defeated the Mission Terrace team of San Francisco at the Corporation yard Sunday by the score of 9 to 3. The features of the game were the batting of Silva of San Mateo who gathered a three-bagger, two two-baggers, a single and a walk in five trips to the plate, and the pitching of Russell, who retired 13 of the Mission Terrace players on strikes. Foye of San Mateo came through with a home run at just the right time. Score:

Patronize Home Industry

The Record has always maintained that it is the duty of people living out here to patronize our business houses for the reason that their success means the general betterment of the community, a thing that all loyal citizens are interested in. If an entertainment of any nature is being arranged, our business people are the first ones to be solicited for assistance and it is often a fact that the solicitors never patronize their home business, but go to the city and trade with people who would actually laugh at them if they were asked to buy a ticket or give two bits to a charitable entertainment out here. It is not quite consistent either, for people who get up dances or entertainments, to have their printing done in the city and expect the people to patronize their grafts, when the local newspaper, the most potent factor in any community for its upbuilding, is completely ignored, save, in some cases, the solicitation of the editor to buy a rat-printed ticket and a request to give the affair a big free write-up.

BIDS FOR FURNISHING AND LAYING WATER PIPES

Sealed proposals will be received by Geo. N. Smith, City Clerk of the City of Daly City, San Mateo County, California, until 8 P. M. September 29, 1913, for furnishing and installing approximately 150 tons of cast iron water pipe, specials and 38 services and also furnishing and installing 6 concrete valve manholes with cast iron covers.

Specifications on file with Roberts & Denicke, Sheldon Building, San Francisco.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Sketch of First Union Labor Member of Congress.

A PRINTER FROM NEW YORK.

When About to Take His Seat a Movement Was Started to Prevent His Qualifying—Contumely and Scorn Heaped Upon Him.

In the Sixty-third congress the trade unions of America will be represented by seventeen members. This result has been the outcome of the policy inaugurated by the American Federation of Labor during the past three congressional campaigns. Prior to the time mentioned men with paid up union cards in their pockets in congress were conspicuous by their absence, although there were union men members of congress prior to 1906. The election of the first union man to congress, however, occurred a great many years ago—in 1834, in fact. Ely Moore, a journeyman printer, was elected to the Twenty-fourth congress and re-elected to the Twenty-fifth from New York city. He was a member of what was then known as the Typographical Association of New York, organized June 17, 1831. Moore also was editor of a labor paper, but data are not available as to its title. The brief biography of this early congressman contains the facts that he was born in New Jersey and died in Kansas and that during the active years of his life he was a labor agitator and organizer of trade unions. Apropos of this subject, Senator Ashhurst of Arizona, while discussing the recall of judges, wove into his address a reference to Ely Moore, likewise paying tribute to the valor and high character of the men who laid the foundation for collective action among workmen. That part of Senator Ashhurst's speech referred to is as follows:

"When Ely Moore, the first member of a labor union to be elected to the congress of the United States, was about to take his seat in the Twenty-fourth congress there was a movement set on foot to try to prevent his being seated. Contumely, scorn and derision were heaped upon him by the reactionaries of that day, who believed that the liberties of the republic were in danger because a member of a labor union had been elected to congress. But the stubborn courage of Ely Moore, his superlative eloquence, biting sarcasm and wonderfully piercing analysis convinced the nation that no mistake had been made in sending a member of a labor union to congress, and so strikingly did this journeyman printer, this organizer of labor unions, this so called 'agitator' and 'demagogue' distinguish himself for patriotism, learning and ability that he became a confidential adviser of the administration of President James K. Polk. I mention these circumstances so that those who are supporting this contest in behalf of a larger human liberty will not become discouraged, but will become encouraged when they reflect how much more intensely heated was the opposition to these reforms in the days gone by. He is wasting his time who believes he can stop or stay these forward movements in their progress. The movement, especially in behalf of those who perform physical labor, for a greater share of freedom, for the right to enjoy a part of the creation of their hands and of their own toil, will inevitably live, for it is broad based as the world itself and as deep as humanity."—Garment Worker.

Progress Due Largely to Effort.

Organized labor has progressed, securing a fuller measure of what it produces, only by steady, persistent, unremitting effort. It has proved its worth as it has gone, and recognition has perforce followed. But the end is not yet, as a larger proportion of the fruits of labor's toil must be its share until finally it receives all its produces. This result, however, will only be obtained by the continued employment of the same methods of persistently pushing forward.

Combine Against Unions.

The Children's Clothing Contractors' association of Greater New York was recently incorporated. Among its objects is the mutual protection of its members "from violence by any person or persons connected with labor unions" and "from being boycotted by any person, persons, firms or corporations."

THE SQUARE DEAL.

If I boost your union label
You should do as much for mine.
This is simple reciprocity,
A never failing sign
That the spirit of true brotherhood
Among us ranks supreme.
To promote the union label
All the time should be our theme.

In the field of union labor
This should be our Golden Rule—
Work and strive to win diplomas
In the union label school.
Always do unto each other
As you'd wish to be done by;
Have the label of your brother,
Union man, on what you buy.

Act together as a unit
In this most important move.
The results will be astounding.
Raise yourself from out the groove
Of inaction, for, remember,
On one point you should agree—
If I demand your label
You should do as much for me.
—T. H. West in Kansas City Labor Journal.

Grandview Theatre Contest

On September 15 a contest will begin for boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 20, with prizes as follows:

First prize—A 6-months course in the Gallagher Business College.

Second prize—A 6-months course of either vocal or piano instruction at San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

Third prize—A 3-months course of mandolin instruction and a fine mandolin.

The management announces that during the contest if any person is proven to be purchasing votes, or getting them improperly, their names will be stricken from the list.

☞ The honest way to discontinue a subscription to a newspaper is to first pay the small amount you owe. Thus you will retain the respect of the editor and guard your own peace of mind. To do otherwise, such as ordering the postmaster to notify the publisher that the paper is "refused" is cowardly. *

The Record's bitterest enemies—God bless 'em—are mostly those who owe us and those who have received richly deserved criticism. The truth hurts and how characteristic it is of a few creatures to dispise people they have "beat" out of honest debts. When you hear the Record "knocked" it is for one of the above reasons.

A. Vogler, of the Vista Grande Bakery, has begun making genuine French bread, and the same is of so fine a quality that it is bound to make a hit and draw a large patronage. It is a home product, a union shop and is open for inspection at all times. All bakery products are manufactured in a sanitary manner, the baking department is well ventilated and is above ground, and is therefore not endangered by basement impurities and disease germs. *

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

NOTICE is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Trustees of the City of Daly City, State of California, up to the hour of 8 o'clock P. M. of Monday, the 29th day of September, 1913, for the purchase of the Waterworks Bonds of said city to the amount of $100,000.

Said bonds will be of the denomination of $1000 each, dated September 1, 1913, three (3) bonds maturing each year for six years, then four (4) bonds maturing each year for eight years, and then five (5) bonds maturing each year for ten years. Said bonds will bear interest at the rate of five and one-half (5½) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, March 1st and September 1st of each year.

Bids shall be addressed to the City Clerk, endorsed "Proposal for the Purchase of Bonds," and each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check to the amount of $500.00, conditioned that the purchaser will take and pay for any and all bonds that may be awarded to him, or otherwise be forfeited to and become the property of said city; provided, however, that no certified check shall be required of the the State of California. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated, Daly City, California, August 25, 1913.

GEO. N. SMITH,
City Clerk.

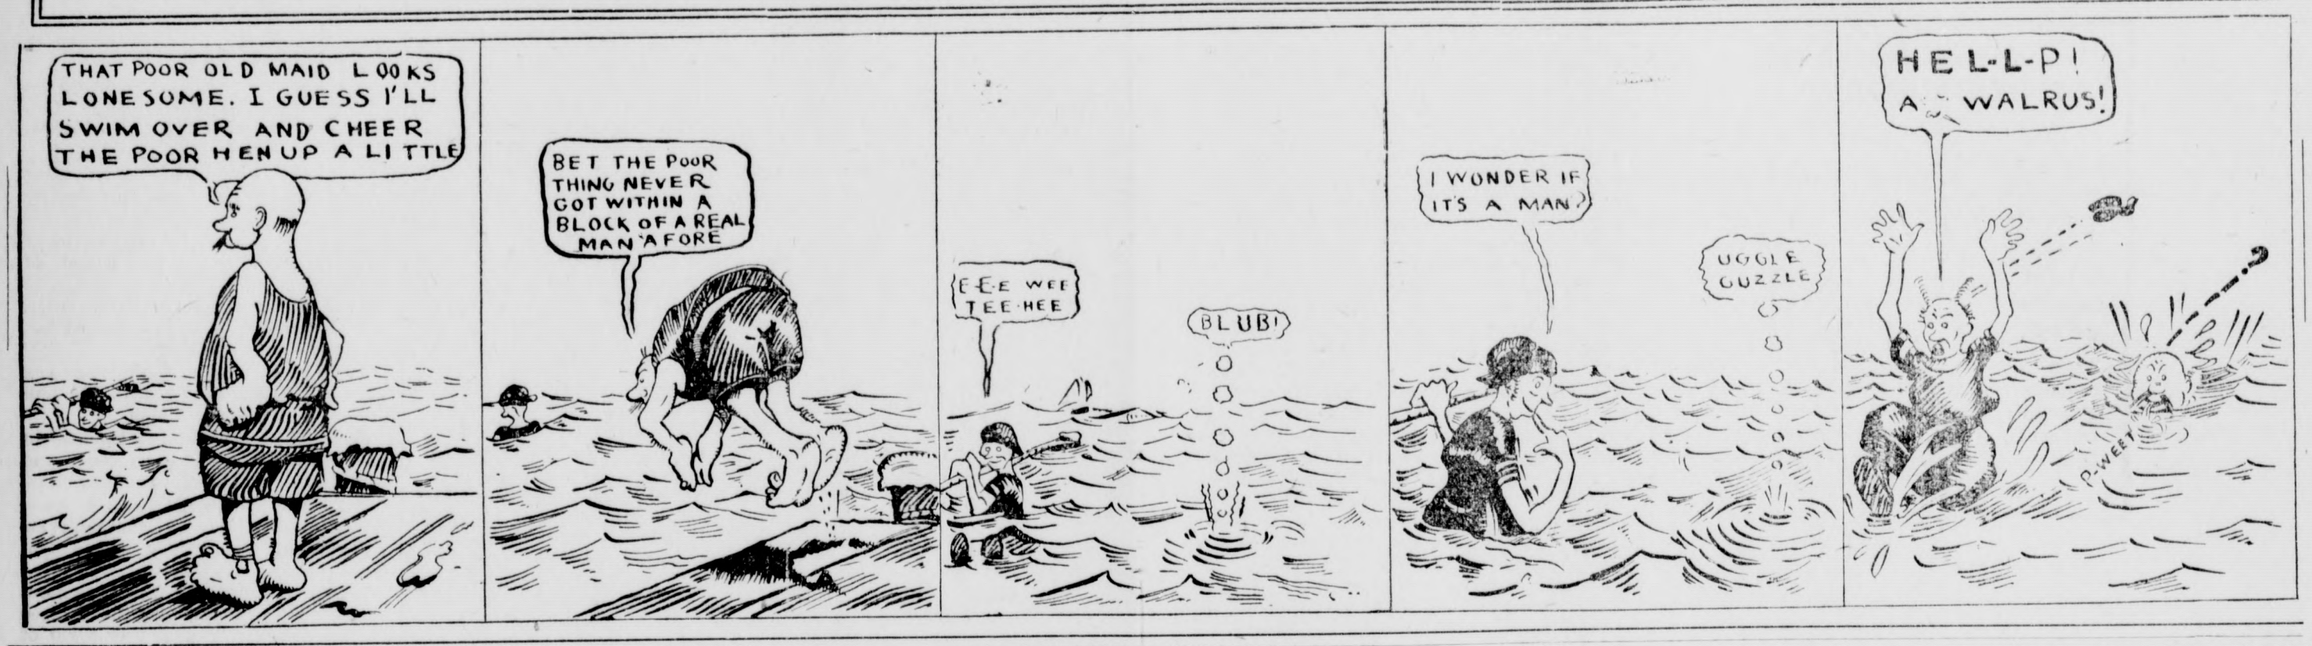
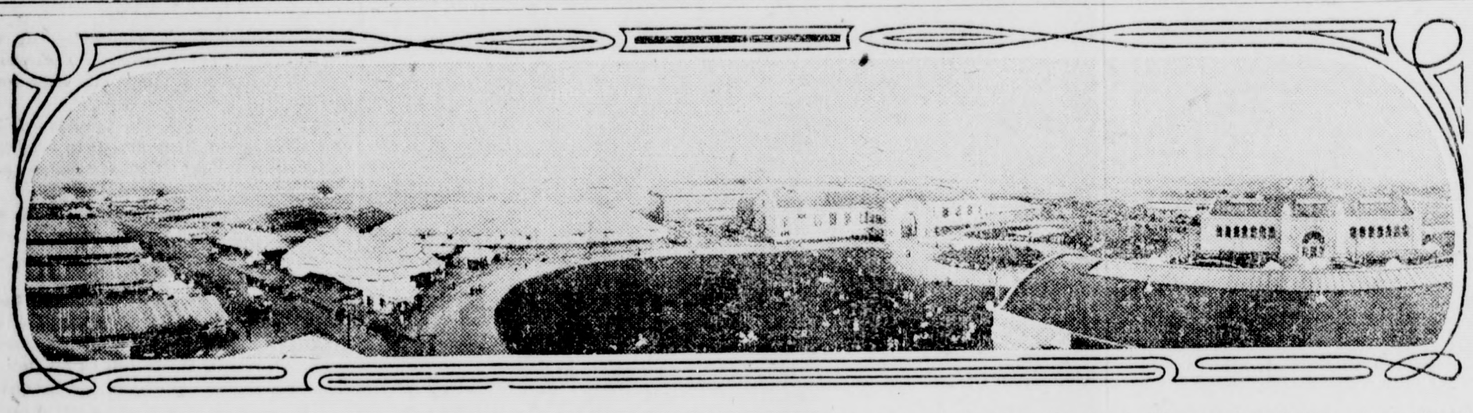
UNSOPHISTICATED OSCAR By Gregory





In addition to several large pavilions and numerous horse barns and live stock sheds, the State Fair uses nearly as much canvas as the largest of three ringed circuses. This is due to the growing popularity of the fair which each year attracts more exhibitors than there is actually room for. The State Agricultural Society hopes to have adequate facilities if the people of California adopt the $750,000 bond issue in the Fall of 1914. This money will be used in buying more grounds and building larger pavilions.

Agricultural Park, as the State Fair grounds is known, is in excellent condition for this time of year, and by the time the fair opens on September 13, it will be made the most attractive spot in all California. A large crew of men is getting the grounds in shape for the coming fair. The race track is being worked into excellent condition for the big harness meet that is to be he d in connection with the fair. Director Charles W. Paine, who in charge of the grounds and track, says he will have the mile oval in the fastest condition this year that it has ever been in before.

The spacious lawns at Agricultural Park are kept nice and green, so that during the fair people may bring their lunches and picnic on the grounds while enjoying the band concerts. Hundreds of families may be seen any evening of the fair eating their lunches on the lawns in front of the Agricultural Pavilion.

Marriage Knot "Busted"

Caleb Coakley, the wealthe Colma innkeeper who earned the distinction of being the most married man in California by being married by five Justices of the Peace in a single day, is ready to cast off the honor, and has started suit to be divorced from his wife, to whom he has been married just a month and two days.

On August 2d Coakley and Mrs. Bessie Anthony went to Redwood City to get married. It happenad that District Attorney Franklin Swart had called a convention of the peace officers of the county on this date and five Justices of the Peace, H. Lampkin of Redwood City, J. A. McCormick of San Mateo, Ellis C. Johnson of Daly City, John F. Davis of Burlingame and John Pitcher of Pescadero, were present. Coakley could make no choice, so all five magistrates pronounced the ceremony while twenty chiefs of police, deputy sheriffs, contables and traffic officers stood as witnesses.

But all that was a month ago. Coakley now charges his wife with extreme cruelty. Coakley obtained a divorce from his first wife only three months before he married Mrs. Anthony. She was a matron on a Pacific liner.—Chronicle.

Mad Dog Attacks Citizen

On Monday a large, white bull dog ran amuck in the Diller addition, finally attacking Louis Cassaretto, and tore his trousers but did not scratch the flesh. The dog was shot and his head sent to the University of California for examination. A dispatch received yesterday informed Health Officer Ross that positive evidence of rabies had been found in the dog's brain. As several dogs were bitten an investigation will be made and the injured animals will be placed in restraint for observation.—Times-Gazette.

Who Pays Taxes To Keep This Town Going?

By HOLLAND.

WHEN a new bridge is needed, a road must be repaired, a courthouse is to be built, where does the money come from? Do the mail order houses pay it? Hardly. They will not even send a contribution to help buy a bell for the new church or to help a Fourth of July celebration. They pay no taxes in this town, and they are not concerned in its prosperity.

This town must be supported by its residents and those who live in the immediate vicinity. If they insist on sending their money away then they are helping to kill their town, and they are making it harder for them to pay the taxes necessary to maintain local government and to make local improvements.

You owe something to yourself, and you owe something to your neighbors. You can help yourself by helping your neighbors. You can't injure your neighbors without injuring yourself. When you send money to mail order houses you are hurting your town, your neighbors and yourself.

SPEND YOUR MONEY
